Basic Water Treatment for Water Distribution Operators

May 8-9, 2023 (8:30 – 12:30 AST)

Course Objective / Description

This program has been designed to provide water distribution and supply water operators with a basic yet valuable understanding of water treatment principals, techniques, and technologies. Given the inter-relationship between water treatment output and water distribution, this program is geared to provide distribution operators with an increased appreciation and understanding of the broader "water" protection perspective.

What will be covered:

- Typical water sources and common treatment considerations
- Basic treatment sciences
- Emerging issues
- Overview of water treatment processes and alternatives systems challenges
- Includes tour of water treatment facility
